Partner from down under

Innis Maggiore announced it has become New Zealand-based SilverStripe's fifth professional partner in North America.

Earning professional partner status acknowledges creative and strategic deployment of SilverStripe's web content management system by Innis Maggiore, the local agency said in a press release. SilverStripe is an open source system used to construct and manage websites, web applications and intranets.

A new website Innis Maggiore launched for Aultman Hospital is showcased on the SilverStripe community site. Innis Maggiore has used SilverStripe since 2011 and developed sites for more than 30 organizations. The system allows Innis Maggiore to rapidly build and change website structure and content, Jason Sypolt, the agency's senior web developer, said in a press release.
